

Group Counseling/Coaching Consent for Treatment

Welcome to your group experience!

Group counseling or coaching can be a powerful and valuable venue for healing and growth. It is the desire of your group facilitator(s) that you reap all the benefits group has to offer. To help this occur, groups are structured to include the following elements: - A safe environment in which you are able to feel respected and valued as you work - An understanding of group goals and group norms - Investment by both your facilitator(s) and members to produce a consistent group experience.

The success of group counseling or coaching depends upon a high degree of trust between you, your group facilitator, and fellow group members. This document has been prepared to fully inform you about what to expect from group counseling or coaching and from your group facilitators.

Understanding Group Counseling or Coaching

Group counseling or coaching is a process of understanding more about yourself and others in a safe environment. In group you will have the opportunity to explore patterns of thinking and behaving that are similar to how you relate to others in your life. Objectives of group counseling or coaching include, but are not limited to:

- Develop skills to assist you in reaching your goals
- Feel a sense of support from other group members
- Understand more about yourself and your family system
- Identify and explore thoughts, feelings and behaviors that hold you back
- Learn how to improve relationships with others

You are welcome to share as much or as little about yourself while in the group, however, the more open you are the better experience you will have. You are welcome to ask questions at any time. The more deeply you understand the process of counseling or coaching, the more effectively you will be able to incorporate positive change into your life.

Your group facilitators and the therapeutic relationship

The relationship between you and your group facilitators is special and unique. You will be sharing information in group that is sensitive and personal. Your group facilitators are:

The role of your group facilitators

Our philosophy and approach to group counseling or coaching is the belief that this is your group. Each group member will have an equal say in what topics will be discussed, and what format feels most beneficial. Your group facilitator's primary responsibility is to create an atmosphere of safety and support in order for you to get the most out of group. Your group facilitator will encourage each group member to be honest, vulnerable, and respectful about his or her feelings and observations in the group.

If you are ever feeling unsafe in group you are encouraged to discuss this with your group facilitator. If for any reason you experience any negative reactions or blocks towards participation, please share this with the group. Your voice is your power and your right.

Potential benefits of group counseling or coaching

Participating in group counseling or coaching can result in a number of benefits to you, including a better understanding of your personal goals and values, improving personal relationships, and resolution of specific problems you are facing in your life. It is important to recognize that counseling or coaching is not magic, and change does not occur overnight. Your willingness to participate fully in group and your openness to take feedback from your facilitators and other group members will play a role in how much you gain in counseling or coaching. In particular, the extent to which you are open and honest about yourself will play a role in how quickly you can achieve your goals.

Knowing the risks of group counseling or coaching

There can be discomfort involved in participating in group counseling or coaching. You may remember unpleasant events, or experience feelings of anger, fear, anxiety, sadness, frustration, loneliness, helplessness, or other unpleasant feelings. If these distressful emotions arise during your counseling or coaching, please talk with your group and with your group facilitator.

During the process of group counseling or coaching, is normal to have intense feelings and reactions to other group members or even towards your group facilitators. Again, these are understandable emotions that should be discussed and processed in the group setting.

If you believe that group is not the most appropriate setting for you to heal and grow, please talk with your facilitator about other possible options.

Confidentiality

It is important that you feel comfortable in group to talk freely about whatever is bothering you. Sometimes you might want to discuss things that you do not want those outside of the group to know about. You have the expectation of privacy in group sessions. As a general rule, group facilitators do not talk to anyone about what you discuss in group.

However, there are some exceptions to this rule. In some situations, in accordance with professional ethics and state laws, your facilitator may disclose information without your permission.

- ❖ Some of the circumstances where disclosure is required by law are:
- ❖ If you, a minor, a dependent person, or an elder adult is being abused
- ❖ If you are in danger of hurting yourself, someone else, or another person's property
- ❖ When others communicate to your facilitator that you present a danger to others

If you are doing things that could cause serious harm to you or someone else, your facilitator will use his/her professional judgment to decide whether a duty to warn exists to ensure everyone's safety. In these situations, your facilitator will talk with you about their concerns and discuss the best way to include your support system in order to get the support that you need.

Group member's agreement for confidentiality

All members of the group will be asked to agree to a high level of confidentiality in the group sessions. This means that each participant agrees not to share any other group member's identifying and personal information with others. It is appropriate to share your personal reaction and feelings about group with others, but please do not share other people's stories with anyone outside of the group.

Fees

The fee for each group session is Counseling: $50.00-$70.00 and Coaching: $20.00-$60.00. Payment is requested at the beginning of every group session. Some group members may choose to pay in advance for services rendered on a monthly basis. If you pay in advance and have an excused absence, then that payment will be held as a credit for future sessions.

Payment can be made by debit or credit card, cash. As the administrative costs of running a practice change, session fees may be adjusted accordingly. In such cases, your group facilitator will discuss the adjusted fee with you at least 30 days before a change will come into effect.

Emergencies

Please note that we may not be immediately available to handle emergency situations. If you are in need of emergency assistance, call '911' or the crisis response team for your county of residency. Unless otherwise specified, your therapist will return phone messages within 24 hours.

Consistent Attendance

It is very important that you consistently attend scheduled group counseling or coaching sessions. Although illness, unexpected events, or vacations may occasionally interrupt your counseling or coaching, consistent attendance plays a large role in helping you, and your fellow group members achieve your desired goals. Please be aware that your absences negatively influence the progress of yourself and the other group members. If for any reason you are not able to attend a group session, please inform your group facilitator.

Conclusion of Group Counseling or Coaching

There are many different levels of care that therapists provide. Although group counseling or coaching is a very helpful tool for many people, the level of care offered at Dr. White Counseling or coaching and with this group may sometimes not be the best match to your needs. If at any point during counseling or coaching your facilitator assesses that she/he is not effective in helping you reach your goals in the group setting, she/he will provide you and your parent/guardian with a number of referrals that may be of help.

Thank you for the time and attention that you took to read this document. We look forward to having you in group!
